

Lesson 42: Discussing the News

Two roommates, Patrick and Winston, discuss their newspaper subscription and news in general. Listen to their conversation (the script starts on the next page) and mark the statements below “True” or “False.”

Listening Comprehension

True or false according to the dialogue?

1. Patrick doesn't remember the e-mail Winston sent
2. The Springtime Examiner subscription has already expired
3. Winston is not sure whether or not he will renew it
4. Patrick is distracted by a text from a friend
5. Patrick likes getting news instantly
6. Winston dislikes online news because staring at a screen is bad for your eyes
7. Winston admits that instant notifications are good in emergencies
8. Winston is concerned that people are losing the ability to think critically
9. Patrick believes that change is inevitable
10. Patrick and Winston will split the cost of the newspaper subscription

Conversation Text

Winston: Hey Patrick, did you get the email I forwarded you last week?

Patrick: Umm, I'm not sure... what was it about? Could you refresh my memory?

Winston: The message saying that our Springtime Examiner subscription expires at the end of the month.

Patrick: You're not seriously considering renewing it, are you?

Winston: I'm definitely renewing it. What I want to know is if you're gonna chip in.

Patrick: Oh, come on, Winston, get with the times! Pretty much everyone in our generation gets their news online.

Winston: You can't call that news. What people read online is fluff. It's like pure sugar that rots your brain, with a few facts thrown forwarded = received an e-mail from someone else and re-sent it to a new person

Vocabulary

refresh my memory = remind me

expires = comes to an end, isn't valid anymore

renewing = to renew a subscription means to pay for it and keep it active for another period of time in the future

chip in = contribute money to a shared expense get with the times! = update/modernize yourself

fluff = (slang) content that isn't meaningful, it just exists to fill up space

rots = makes something decay, decompose in to make you think you're staying abreast of the news. Plus, the internet plays fast and loose with the facts.

Patrick: (distracted) Ah!

Winston: What?

Patrick: The little software company I invested in last week – it's on the upswing. I get notifications about stocks on my phone.

Winston: See? Case in point! You can't even follow our conversation because you're distracted by your notifications. It's another thing that bugs me. Everything is so instantaneous. Do you have to know what's happening with your stocks at this very moment? Why can't it wait until tomorrow?

Patrick: Because I don't want to wait until tomorrow. Why should I? That's one of the perks of living in the twenty-first century. Something can happen on the other side of the world, and the news reaches me in a flash.

Vocabulary

staying abreast of = staying updated, accompanying the latest information plays fast and loose with the facts = does not carefully check or prove on the upswing = on a trend of increase or improvement

stocks = elements of the stock market, the state of the economy

Case in point! = this is a good example of what I was just talking about

bugs me = annoys, bothers me

perks = benefits

in a flash = very quickly, instantly

Winston: Yeah, you learn the bare essentials, but the coverage leaves a lot to be desired. They take one or two points and talk about them to death. So you might find out that there was an earthquake in California, or a volatile situation in the Middle East, but –

Patrick: You're saying that's not important? What if your brother was in California when the earthquake hit? You'd want to know he was safe as soon as you could!

Winston: Well, sure. That's what technology should be used for: spreading the word in emergencies. But when it comes to a complex, serious issue, a few soundbites or a simple notification just won't cut it. Not everything can be boiled down to a few bullet points to browse on your phone.

Patrick: But it doesn't hurt to have the bullet points.

Winston: Yes! Yes! It absolutely does hurt! If you dumb things down for quick consumption, people are going to get used to it. They're going to start thinking a political

Vocabulary

bare essentials = basic facts/fundamentals leaves a lot to be desired = is not as good as it should be talk about them to death = talk about them excessively volatile = unstable and may "explode"

spreading the word = sharing information with many people

when it comes to = an informal way to say "regarding"

soundbite = a very short audio or video clip

won't cut it = won't be sufficient boiled down = summarized, reduced to the essentials

browse = look at casually dumb things down = make things overly simple campaign or a pressing social issue can be squeezed into the amount of space it takes to read the weather forecast. People already have a much shorter attention span, and our critical thinking skills are going downhill, too.

Patrick: You may have a point, but you're swimming against the current. People aren't going to go back to reading dense papers if they can stay informed with less effort. Things change. Newspapers were once the height of progress, and now they're becoming antiquated.

Winston: Well, I'm still going to renew my Springtime Examiner.

Patrick: I figured you would. But you're on your own for the subscription fee.

Vocabulary

pressing = urgent, needing immediate attention

squeezed = compressed into a small space attention span = the amount of time someone is able to focus on something going downhill = becoming worse

swimming against the current = going against the trend or the majority of people (also: swimming against the tide)

antiquated = old-fashioned, no longer relevant you're on your own = you're responsible; you won't have help
