

Elizabeth* Linda

Yoko and Jin Sung

The students asked why there were so many children in the church on Wednesday nights and I told them that the Indian community holds classes teaching them about their culture and beliefs. We spent some time talking about that and church words.

We read several of the letters from students in EEN and discussed the letters. That was followed by a game of taboo. We finished by looking at a few articles in "Northern Connection" for a possible "book club" discussion.